S&P Dow Jones Indices

Best Index Provider

Sam Tsui, Head of Market Development, Asia Pacific

Investors are beginning to treat digital assets as part of their investment toolkit – whether for diversification, growth or innovation.

S&P Dow Jones Indices has once again demonstrated a high degree of innovation, particularly in the Asia-Pacific region over the past year. Through strategic market expansion, innovative product offerings, and significant business improvements, S&P DJI has solidified its position as the best international index provider. With a focus on innovation, technological integration, and client-centric solutions, S&P DJI continues to help investors and product specialists set the stage for future development. This evident in the launch of over 300 new indices across asset classes, regions and investment themes in 2025.

As investors continue to show increased interest in private markets, S&P DJI is developing the S&P Private Equity 50 Indices, to capture broad, high-quality and diversified exposure in an innovative way that is enhancing transparency and scalability.

In Indonesia, S&P DJI formed an official collaboration agreement with the Indonesia Stock Exchange to create and launch three co-branded equity indices covering IDX-listed stocks.

In Japan, in partnership with JPX Market Innovation & Research, S&P DJI launched the S&P/JPX Prime Market 250 Index. The index tracks and measures the performance of the largest and most liquid stocks traded on the prime market of the Tokyo Stock Exchange, covering the largest and most liquid 250 constituents.

As the demand for smarter and more adaptive investment tools grows, S&P DJI continues to deliver innovative benchmarks that blend traditional index methodology with cutting-edge technology. The S&P 500 3AI Sector Rotator Index is an innovative benchmark that incorporates artificial intelligence, through machine learning, to analyse company data and market signals to forecast sector performance, enabling systematic and adaptive allocations across S&P 500 sectors.

Cryptocurrencies and the broader digital asset industry have moved from the margins into a more established role in global markets. S&P DJI and Dinari, a leading provider of tokenised US public securities, has collaborated to launch the S&P Digital Markets 50 Index, offering market participants consistent, rules-based tools.

Investors are beginning to treat digital assets as part of their investment toolkit – whether for diversification, growth or innovation. The new index technologies buties involved in digital asset operations, infrastructure providers, financial services, blockchain applications and supporting technologies, but will also be combined with 15 cryptocurrencies selected from the S&P Cryptocurrency Broad Digital Market Index.
