Amundi

Best ESG Strategy

Amundi's leadership is supported by a long-standing and systematic approach to engagement.

Amundi has continued to demonstrate a steadfast and proactive commitment to responsible investment, confidently sustaining its strategy and global agenda that places ESG at the heart of its growth and client service priorities.

Amundi has strengthened its leadership position in Responsible Investment by meeting the objectives set out in its ESG Ambitions 2025 plan. As of December 2025, Amundi managed €1.048 trillion in responsible investment, €332bn in climate assets under management and had reached more than 1,000 institutional investor clients on their climate approach. This includes a £20 billion climate-aligned index mandate awarded by The People's Pension. Amundi's impact investing platform also continued to grow, with €21.8bn of AuM. On stewardship, Amundi engaged 2,948 companies in 2025, representing 95% of MSCI World market capitalisation, and was ranked 1st among the 10 largest asset managers for voting practices on environmental and social issues according to ShareAction.

Amundi's leadership is supported by a long-standing and systematic approach to engagement. In 2025, Amundi's stewardship activities covered all key sustainability themes, including 1,700 engagements on climate, 901 on natural capital and 852 on human capital and human rights. Engagement also remained global in reach, spanning Europe, North America and Emerging Markets.

Looking ahead, Amundi's ambition is to remain clients' number one choice for responsible investment by focusing on three priorities: offering the broadest range of responsible investment solutions, providing recognised levers to support transitions — including climate finance, stewardship and impact investing — and tailoring our services to clients' evolving needs.
